1) dan kelley, christina hiller, scott "stick" ayers and jake randall formed a new band, cypress. this band wrote its own music and played at various places. (photo by joslyn williamson) 2) tara beth moore and mindy spencer greet people as they move onto campus. the a.s.c. welcoming committee was in charge of making the transition for freshmen a smooth one. (photo by joslyn williamson) 3) freshman boys ryan mchone, ryan beuthin and kirk davis chat it up in the bowlings' back yard. the first week of school was filled with activities designed to unite the freshmen into a class. (photo by joslyn williamson) 4) amy stipp, a freshman r.a. in williams, talks to sophomore sophia rawadee on move-in day. sisters karen (fr.) and jen (jr.) anderson stand by and listen. (photo by joslyn williamson) 5) computer services employees worked vigorously during the first few weeks to install novell onto all new students' computers. here, a drop-off/pickup center was set up in williams lobby. (photo by joslyn williamson) 6) willams r.a. sarah ross searches for a new resident's yellow card. at check-in time, the r.a.s must "yellow-card" a room, which means they have searched for any existing damage. (photo by joslyn williamson) 7) because moving in can be so overwhelming, a tent is set up every year as information central to answer any questions that might arise. a.s.c. mans the tent all day and provides refreshments for those who stop by. (photo by joslyn williamson) 8) amy lantz, cara gilbert, laura ooten and kim wilkes enjoy their time at the president's picnic. the president and his wife welcomed new students by inviting them over for a picnic on the first sunday evening of school. (photo by joslyn williamson) 9) kathy jewell, rachel bergman, todd maberry, adrian covey and erin rumbley take a well deserved break at the president's dinner. the a.s.c. executive council stayed busy during the first week of school. this was their time to meet new people and let them meet their leaders. "while most people moved in on aug. 24, i moved in two weeks earlier. the fact that i was at college and more than 300 miles away from my family wasn't really fun, but then to add on to that, i was in williams dorm all by myself. moving in was the most stressful part of coming to o.n.u. i had brought more stuff than i could fit in my room; when i started putting my stuff away, i realized my roommate would have nowhere to live. so, i sent half of my stuff back home with my parents. finally, my roommate moved in. at first, i was worried that our personalities would clash. but, after our parents left, we had time to talk and get to know each other. we knew that we would live together for our first year at o.n.u. and be just fine."

olivet nazarene university seeks to unite the strongest scholarship and deepest piety in an effort to transfer both knowledge and character in her graduates. this will only happen because someone or some group intended it to happen. deep piety cannot be arbitrarily formed any more than meaningful scholarship can be randomly assembled. regularly scheduled chapel is the place where the university community makes a place for this blending.

the chapel services are built on this foundation: Jesus is the center of our spiritual life. all that we do there must center on Jesus. one's devotedness to God can be no greater than his or her love for Jesus.

"chapel gives me the opportunity to devote an hour solely to learning about and praising God through word and song."
~andrea van der steeg, sr.

1) dr. michael benson, olivet's new chaplain, spoke various times throughout the year. he was welcomed to olivet with open arms and put many new changes into effect. (photo by joslyn williamson) 2) returning guest speaker bo castle challenges students to step out of their comfort zones and let God challenge them so that they will have "no regrets!" standing with him are junior tara beth moore and senior phil schwada, who briefly shared their experiences from last summer with youth in mission. (photo by joslyn williamson) 3) students had the pleasure of hearing joy williams sing a couple of her songs in chapel. she is just one of many artists that came to campus this year through the work of the campus radio station, shine 89.7 fm/WONU. (photo by joslyn williamson) 4) jordan's wake leads worship in a chapel service. the band members spent the day on campus getting to know the students as well as putting on a free concert that night in kresge. (photo by scot kraemer) 5) bob kring, director of intramurals at olivet, was the first speaker for a series called "voices in the community." kring challenged students to not forget the place they have in God's story and to live a life worthy of this calling. (photo by laurie schirding) 6) sophomore andrew tarrant, lead singer of praise, helps leads worship in chapel. praise was chosen to be this year's chapel band and did a great job of drawing the students together in worship. (photo by joslyn williamson) 7) students pour into chalfant at 9:35 a.m. like every year, it seemed that chapel got more crowded and students came in later and later. (photo by joslyn williamson) 8) who says there aren't attentive folks in chapel? perfect examples of chapel buddies, seniors charles ogborn and chadwick anderson, listened attentively to what the chapel speaker was sharing. (photo by laurie schirding) 9) senior bethany robinson and junior kendall ludwig jam during a chapel service. these two guitar players, also members of praise, enjoyed getting to play in chapel this year. (photo by joslyn williamson) 3) all decked out in their class colors, ryan beuthin and chip noble use their master-of-ceremony skills to announce the famous buck-buck tournament. (photo by joslyn williamson) 4) "ooh, ahh, you wish you were a ... freshman"? ... or at least that's what these freshman girls tried to convince the crowd at ollies follies. (photo by joslyn williamson) 5) the freshman volleyball team gathers around to pump itself up for the game. the rallying proved beneficial, as the freshmen beat the seniors as well as the sophomores. (photo by laurie schirding) 6) amy brooks, leslee jones and amanda medley make light of a not-so-funny senior prank on last year's freshmen. (photo by joslyn williamson) 7) ollies follies is about competition and showing what your class is made of as well as growing together as a community. the sophomore volleyball team takes time to pray together before the big match. (photo by lawrence agyei) 8) juniors and sophomores congratulate each other after the coed volleyball match. (photo by lawrence agyei) 9) sophomores zach sheets and wes king rally their classmates during the skit and talent competition. unfortunately, all this rallying did little to help the sophomores' somewhat pathetic attempt at a skit, for which they received last place. better luck next year, guys! 1) after playing games and having a blast, but not defeating the seniors, the junior class takes a break. with another year left, the juniors have plenty of time to strike back and bring home first place. (photo by laurie schirding) 2) neal hollis, lindsay myers and adam zwirkoski take the front row, busting moves to songs such as "tootsie roll" and "electric slide." the juniors' excitement and craziness added a unique twist to ollies follies. (photo by joslyn williamson) 3) brett tescher and mike bretzlaff share a less-than-intimate moment on stage, as bretzlaff spits food into tescher's mouth. this stomach-turning skit is now a three-year tradition. (submitted photo) 4) winding behind trees, dodging other class members and waving his bright orange flag, ben kunz offers a brief interruption to the skit. (photo by tiffany demint) 5) teamwork was the key during this game. ben kumor helps support jeff leach as he passes the hula hoop to brett dolens. (photo by laurie schirding) 6) the junior girls volleyball team gets ready to take on its opponent for yet another match. (photo by laurie schirding)

7) the seniors had a huge group to help out with this year's skit and talent: a mock "american idol" show. here, the crowd anxiously awaits the judges' decision. (photo by joslyn williamson) 8) presidential candidates todd maberry and mindy spencer got friendly during this year's skit, in which they each gave campaign speeches. (photo by lori shand) 9) senior april van kley steps up to bat during a softball game. the seniors did well at defeating their opponents in the sporting events this year. (photo by laurie schirding) 10) nathan vail and nicole shust thrilled the crowd with their rendition of michael jackson's "thriller" during the talent show. (submitted photo) 11) wacky and fun games are always a fun part of the class competitions. here, karla crawford attempts to spit into the cup jen johnston fearfully holds. good aim, crawford! ## ollies follies

"six weeks into my first semester at olivet and six hours from my home in northern iowa, i decided that it was the perfect time for family weekend. that friday, i waited as family after family came to visit their loved ones. by early evening, i was still waiting in my room alone, a bit miserable and more than a bit impatient. that was when my mom knocked on the door. she had my younger sister by the hand and explained that dad and eric were observing the 'no-males-allowed' rule in the downstairs lobby. i spent the weekend simply hanging out with my family. after church, we took far too many pictures, my family loaded up the minivan [and] headed home, and i went back to my usual routine."

the costume and candy festival is a night filled with pulse-pounding attractions (the haunted hall), fabulous fall food (caramel apples!!!) and crazy costumes (did you see the shower curtain?!). this festival provided a welcome escape from the monotony of fall classes. when the night was over, it proved to be as exciting and enjoyable as previous years for both the young and the young at heart.

homecoming is a word that doesn't mean a whole lot to the students at o.n.u. yet, one day, it will. for most of us, homecoming weekend is a time when a lot of strange-looking (ok, just older) people come to o.n.u., "ooh" and "ah" about our beautiful, growing campus and reminisce about the old days. this homecoming was especially fun for me as a senior. next year, i will be coming back to visit and will have a whole new perspective on life, which is both frightening and exciting. this year, the alumni board put a special emphasis on students, offering fun activities for them as well as events for alumni. i am looking forward to seeing what homecoming is like from a different perspective.

as we stood backstage awaiting the ceremony, we paused and prayed a prayer of thanksgiving. in that moment, i was reminded of what really matters. God's faithfulness and grace have taught me so much here at olivet, and that is what i will continually cherish. i am truly honored to have been chosen to be o.n.u.'s homecoming queen for the 2002-03 school year.

i was privileged to be a part of this year's fall play. it was a great experience for everyone involved. professor cohagan did a great job presenting his vision on the stage. it was a different experience for me because there was no set character that i had to develop for this play. professor cohagan wanted each actor to bring a piece of him or herself to each story, and that was a little tough at times. acting gives a person a chance to be someone else for a moment or two, but this play brought the reality of the message straight through each person involved. that is what made this play special. i had a great time during this production and i hope those who came and saw the play enjoyed it as well.

weekends are vital to survival here at olivet, as i'm sure they are at any college. my weekends consist of eating, sleeping and, well, more sleeping (and sometimes cracking a book open). for me, it's a time to relax and take a load off after a stressful week of classes and constant demands. o.n.u. also plans fun events, such as skating, a variety of shows, free movies, crazy karaoke and the list goes on. as much as olivet encourages us to stick around on the weekends, sometimes it's just necessary to get away and go home. there's nothing like a hug from the family or a four-hour drive in the freezing cold with no heater. my favorite weekend memories would have to consist of time spent with my big sister, joslyn, or my roommate, jon reed.

"200 olivet students participated in the university orchestra and choral union's 67th annual presentation of handel's Messiah. Messiah is one of a handful of musical works performed almost continuously from the time of its composition to the present. in spite of a world that largely devalues the concept of tradition, performance of this extraordinary musical setting of Messianic Scriptures continues to enjoy worldwide favor." ~dr. neal woodruff, in the daily journal

it's a wonderful life is a classic american movie that many people, including myself, have fond holiday memories of. who can forget jimmy stewart learning just how much impact one person can have on the lives of the people around him? the Christmas banquet is something that many olivet students also have fond memories of. the banquet is about celebrating the school, the season and, most of all, celebrating the friendships that we have made. it is fun to get dressed up, look at the decorations, eat and take pictures, but the real enjoyment is in the memories that we build at college. i take lots of pictures at the Christmas banquet because i want to remember this wonderful night spent with the people that I know and love.

what is it that defines a university? how does one arrive at an understanding of olivet nazarene university? one must begin by recognizing that definitions are multifaceted.

objectively, a university can be defined, in part, by its physical properties. geography, topography, campus design, architecture and landscaping all contribute to making any school what it is. the olivet campus — its classrooms, library, labs, recreational areas and residence halls — brings form and physical substance to the university. to change the campus would be to change, in part, the definition of olivet — but there is more.

curriculum is another objective source of definition. some schools offer a single highly specialized curriculum, such as an art institute, a Bible college or a law school. olivet offers specialization, but it rests on the traditional broad base of general course offerings in the liberal arts tradition of higher education.

subjectively, the school is defined by its history and traditions, its culture and ethos. olivet's humble beginnings, an early financial crisis, the tragic fire at "old" olivet, the move to bourbonnais, the tornado and the continued development of the present campus all contribute to who we are today.

"it is God who ultimately brings meaning and definition to all of life, including o.n.u."

even so, an understanding of olivet must transcend those features. olivet's definition is a living definition. this university is much more than a campus; it is a living community of faith and learning. it is people — the faculty, staff, students, trustees, alumni and friends — who embody the mission and give vibrancy and life to the curriculum and culture of the school.

all of these features — the people, campus, curriculum, history and culture — find their meaning in the mission statement of olivet. this forms the most powerful source of definition. the olivet mission statement is as follows:

olivet nazarene university, a denominational university in the wesleyan tradition, exists to provide a liberal arts "education with a Christian purpose." our mission is to provide high-quality academic instruction for the purpose of personal development, career and professional readiness, and the preparation of individuals for lives of service to God and humanity. "we seek the strongest scholarship and the deepest piety, knowing that they are thoroughly compatible (and) ... a Christian environment ... where not only knowledge but character is sought" (quotation from the university catalog of 1915).

this mission touches every part of the olivet experience and provides a touchstone to help provide meaning to all that takes place on this campus.

added to all of this is the presence of God at work in and through olivet. one cannot hope to understand olivet without recognizing the spiritual nature of this university. it is God who ultimately brings meaning and definition to all of life, including o.n.u.

as we think about definitions, it is our yearbook, the aurora, which serves as our dictionary. these pages capture in photos and words the many aspects of olivet nazarene university for this academic year. this is an outstanding book, but not even the hundreds of pictures and thousands of words herein can fully tell the story, for the definition of olivet is as unique as each person's experience. olivet is you. it is you who must live out the meaning of this good place!

the 2002-03 aurora staff honors dr. william bell, the university's division of social sciences chairman, for his contributions to the olivet community. his compassion, generosity and leadership have been a constant example.

"i admire dr. bill bell very much," pam whalen, dr. bell's secretary, said. "he is one of those people that really walks the talk. he has such a passion for missions and telling the world about Jesus. one of the things that i admire most is his genuine concern for other people. i have seen him go out of his way to help a student or to help anyone that's in need. ..."

it is with tremendous pleasure that the year-book staff dedicates the 90th volume of the aurora to dr. william bell.

"in psych 102 ... dr. bell has a talk about hallucinations. in the process of his lecture, he begins to brush something off his sleeve. a few minutes later, he begins to swat his arm. students begin to wake up and whisper among themselves about his possible mental instability. it is about that time when he starts getting frustrated with the spiders he sees crawling down his arm. he gets more and more upset with them, and students get more and more alarmed. when i was in the class, my friends and i started laughing, and other people got upset with us. ... they had not yet learned about dr. bell's trademark dry humor."

"he's one of the most intelligent people i've ever met, for one thing, and he is someone who is constantly learning new things and getting involved in all kinds of areas. he truly has a heart for other people and never seems to get tired of giving away his time and energy. ..."

computer science

1) while working on homework and utilizing the resources the university has available for students in the third-floor burke computer lab, annette fernandez jams to some tunes on her earphones. (photo by mary faw) 2) as in most classes, introduction to computer science also requires group work, as shown here by ethan parks and brian baker. dr. larry vail claims that group work "allows students to do a slightly larger project than individually and cooperative learning is a different mode and often effective compared to teacher/student-only in learning." (photo by jennifer beesley) 3) "dr. larry vail ... wants his students to learn and is willing to help them understand the material he is teaching," points out adam hutchinson. in this computer programming class, dr. vail lives out hutchinson's comments by helping hutchinson and rich caloun, both computer science majors, conceptualize what they are learning. ### fast facts about the department

~the department of computer science is staffed by two professors and various lab assistants.

~the department follows certain moral imperatives and has patterned guidelines and a code of conduct after the a.c.m. code of conduct.

education

fast facts about the department

~the department has been through some major changes in the last year due to accreditation, both nationally and statewide.

~education students spend up to 150 hours in a classroom in the community to fulfill the requirements for field experience.

1) senior alisha crosariol explains her idea to senior dana roat, who looks a bit unsure. these girls have been together in the department for seven semesters and now will be in different classrooms while student-teaching. great friendships are formed in the different major fields. (photo by megan o'connell) 2) rob doyle looks relaxed as he studies on one of the comfortable couches in common grounds. as a spanish education major, doyle had the opportunity to study abroad for a semester in costa rica. (photo by jennifer lovell) 3) poring over the sunday comics, charryse brooks and nicole miller find common words as they play students in their future classrooms. department of education classes are especially fun because they often include hands-on activities that the students will be able to utilize in their future classrooms. (photo by joslyn williamson) 4) senior early childhood education major nicole caez uses the document camera to expand on a presentation to her reading class. the department is continually keeping up with the technology trends in the nation's classrooms. no more overhead projectors here! (photo by joslyn williamson)

"my dream is to teach special education. i will be able to be an influence in someone's life who isn't cherished as much as he or she should be."

~lindsey wright, so.

1) without lab assistants, where would students be? freshman dan ostedag turns to the older, more experienced voice of bryce nevills in the engineering computer lab. lab assistants often go unnoticed, but at the end of the semester, we all know who helped us through those lab classes! (photo by lawrence agyei) 2) carefully paying attention in class, sophomore marissa lynn refers back to her notes as a professor asks a question in class. diligent studying and organization are needed for engineering majors to finish in time for graduation. (photo by mary faw) 3) engineering majors adrian avelar and emmanuel musyolea use the computer lab to complete homework. the computers contain special programs that are designed especially for coursework in engineering and are not available on students' personal computers. - ~the mechanical engineering concentration is designed to prepare students for productive careers in industry, government, education and private consulting.
- ~electrical engineers may be hired as designers or as product system testers, researchers and sales engineers.

engineering

"the department is small, so everyone knows everyone, and there is a large group of people to get help from."
~marissa lynn, so.

english

"i love the atmosphere of the entire english department. every day i come to class, i am constantly reminded of how much joy and wisdom i have gathered over the years from spending time with my fellow students and the faculty." ~lisa payne, sr.

fast facts about the department

~the department hosts a party to introduce new english majors and minors to upperclassmen.

~some students get together at night with professors to watch games or movies on the smart boards and then discuss them.

~there is a group of about six english students who call themselves "the grammar queens" because they all suffered through grammar together. they have parties and talk about non-grammatical things all the time.

1) "praise the Lord, praise Him in His sanctuary, praise Him in the classroom." professor dave johnson offers a devotion at the beginning of his class. professors' commitment to and passion for Christ is evident to their students both inside and outside the classroom. (photo by adam schwer) 2) how many novels can one read in a semester? just ask these junior and senior english majors. these bookworms read at least eight books, plus additional material, by the end of first semester because of the different classes they must take. it's a good thing we're not all english majors! (submitted photo) 3) nikki brinkmann, tina griffin, sabrina pollard, dan kelley and chad ruzich are getting into the african mood in their presentation for their non-western literature class with dr. shirlee mcguire. they taught and belted out the words to a lit. 308 favorite, "siyahamba," which means "marching in the light of God." (photo by laurie schirding)

fast facts about the department

~the department worked on completing the accreditation of allied health education programs (c.a.a.h.e.p.) and will be notified of the results in spring 2003. the joint review committee on educational programs in athletic training conducted an accreditation site visit at o.n.u. in october.

~clinical rotations provide students an opportunity to practice and hone abilities in a nonthreatening environment under the direct supervision of certified athletic trainers.

"i enjoy the professors. they're a lot of fun to work with and are willing to spend the extra time to make sure we understand things ... i also enjoy the interaction with teams that we get to work with."

1) brandi oitker has nothing to fear since she knows her classmate sarah schultz can successfully wrap an injured leg. these girls kept current in the training room, and had even more practice on the athletic fields, where they had to spend over 100 hours. (photo by marcus lyte) 2) junior brian eden works on opening his refreshing pepsi before class starts. as a sports management major with a minor in business and youth ministry, eden is obviously busy, so it probably wouldn't be suprising to find him having his lunch in class. on this day, though, eden claims, "truthfully, i was just really thirsty." (photo by jennifer lovell)

fast facts about the department

~f.a.c.s. focuses on families and consumers.

~majors in the department include dietetics, fashion merchandising and child development.

1) freshman artist joy sittig works meticulously on her sketch. creative minds, combined with a plethora of colors and visualization, make for a great variety of art majors. (photo by laurie schirding) 2) no one sleeps in this early nutrition class in weber. kristen heimsoth and andrea van der steeg take notes, while jilann fleagle tries to understand professor heather perdue-smith's lecture. these students were some of the early risers on campus, as the class was offered at 7:30 a.m. (photo by laurie schirding) 3) cindy pecka takes precise measurements as she starts her sewing project. when it was completed, she had a new pair of froggie p.j.'s! (photo by laurie schirding) 4) rachel pennington concentrates on her work for her architectural drafting class. this class is one of the requirements for fashion merchandising majors. (photo by joslyn williamson) 5) alyssa moeschke cuts up a storm as she gets her pieces ready to sew together. the final product was a pair of pajamas perfectly tailored for her. (photo by laurie schirding)

"i really enjoy the classes, including interior design and architectural drafting. i think these classes are very important. [they give] you better understanding in order to be a better consumer."

1) laura ooten observes t.a. mary faw's stream table demonstration for a geology lab as israel soto looks on. (photo by jeff popenhagen) 2) these students prove geology is a hands-on study. from left to right are marvin floyd, jessica blake, jeff popenhagen, cara landis, mary faw, sarah nicol-anderson and ted lausted. (submitted photo) 3) "hold on! we'll be right there, ted!" geology field trips can be somewhat dangerous, as shown here by ted lausted. however, getting the best observations is the point, right? who needs safety? (photo by mary faw)

fast facts about the department

~outdoor labs are both enjoyable and educational for students.

~students learn about everything from rock layers to subduction zones to glaciers to fossils.

geology

history

"to study history is not just knowing dates and facts, but [gaining] an understanding of why people did what they did, when they did it, and [applying] that knowledge to understand people's actions today and even in the future."

fast facts about the department...

~dr. stephen lowe recently completed his second novel, sin walter and mr. jones, which won the 2000 united states golf association international book award.

~history majors often study abroad for a semester to learn about other countries' history and culture.

1) gavin raath, kumar bhooshan and jon livengood prepare for a fascinating lecture in this russian history class taught by dr. william dean. raath was excited about this class and read master and margirta, a 20th-century novel by a russian author. (photo by kate andersma) 2) senior history major sharon garrison takes a moment to review the chapter before this 300-level russian history class. dr. william dean teaches the class, which is offered every other year. dr. dean takes his class on a field trip to an orthodox sabor (cathedral) and uses a book written in stalinist russia but not published until years after the author's death. (photo by kate andersma) 3) samantha vales is so talented that she can talk about current events with carrie yana and knit at the same time. you go, girl! (photo by kate andersma)

"it is an intense but exciting major that requires dedication and curiosity." ~emily ouimette, so.

~each of the professors in the department hold a doctorate.

1) marcus cleveland punches numbers into his calculator in one of dr. stephen brown's math classes. (photo by lawrence agyei) 2) sophomore angela wood refers to her book in order to answer a question in class. intermediate algebra is one of the favorite courses in the department of mathematics, as many are required to take it for general education purposes. (photo by kate andersma) 3) sarah kring is mesmerized in her math class. early-morning classes are hard, but they're a sacrifice these students are willing to make as they seek to understand how God reveals Himself through the science of mathematics. (photo by lawrence agyei)

music

fast facts about the department

~professor don reddick took a sabbatical to finish his doctorate.

~ensemble groups travel at least once a semester ministering to the churches on the olivet region..

1) music major autumn shepherd rehearses with orpheus choir in preparation for praise gathering. the 60-voice choir was started by walter b. larsen in the early years of olivet. the group continues to be involved on campus while traveling and ministering to churches on olivet's region. (photo by kate andersma) 2) te-at-a-too-tel-le-at-ta-toot as he plays it eight to the bar! lupe del tori played his fugal horn and some classic jazz as he warmed up for jazz band, proving he had a boogie style like no one else. (photo by kate andersma) 3) "playin's pretty dandy," says rodney kilgore, the one-year veteran of olivet's jazz band. kilgore, who studied classical piano before his switch to jazz, enjoys listening to everything come together during rehearsals. (photo by kate andersma) 4) rachel smith finishes up her homework sitting on one of the newly refurbished benches in a remodeled larsen. (photo by kate andersma)

and disregarded
kids express themselves
through music
instead of

"in egypt, they think it's rude to say 'i don't know' when you ask for directions, so if they don't know, they make it up."

~kara krestel, jr. (studied abroad in egypt fall 2002)

fast facts about the department

~as a Christian college in the wesleyan tradition, olivet evaluates the politics of the state based on the assumption that the state is an institution ordained by God to promote public justice.

~students study government at all levels – from the smallest community to the international community of states.

1) latiffany hall pauses for a quick glance at her Christian science monitor to check up on current events before her introduction to political science class. political science majors don't just discuss issues in class; many usually gather in dr. david van heemst's (a.k.a. "dvh") office because his door is always open. (photo by kate andersma) 2) dr. david van heemst encourages his students to discuss current events in politics in his introduction to political science classes. kevin guest and nick howard get a head start as they discuss the upcoming election. dr. van heemst encourages his students to form a Christian worldview and become active citizens seeking justice in their country and their world. (photo by kate andersma) 3) whatever plan ryan mauritz and rodger doss are hatching, this introduction to political science class better beware. maybe they're brainstorming for their end-of-the-semester presentation about political issues or world events? in any case, they're innocent until proven guilty – at least in this democratic experiement. (photo by kate andersma)

1) from family scrapbooks to creating a program for your own funeral to writing about a beatless song, dr. frank garton uses many creative methods to help his students understand adult and adolescent psychology. dr. garton, a counselor at olivet, has years of experience in the counseling field that make him more than qualified to teach this foundational class for both psychology and education majors. (photo by kate andersma) 2) senior nicole shust uses her highlighter to help her study before class starts. every student studies differently; some use highlighters, some make outlines, and some ask, "what's studying?" (photo by kate andersma) 3) shapiro developmental center offered these two senior psychology majors, josh thomas and doug berry, a place to relax after a tour of the former hospital for the mentally insane, now a center for men and women with developmental disabilities. dr. gary koch set up the tour of the facilities to help both his abnormal psychology and counseling students understand the history of treating mental illness. (photo by kate andersma)

fast facts about the department...

- ~professors concentrate on students learning the materials rather than memorizing the facts.
- ~students studying psychology go into a variety of jobs, and often go on to graduate school.

"besides following in my sister's footsteps, psychology is a field i am interested in and i will be able to focus on a specific area in the future."

religion

fast facts about the department

- ~olivet sends more students than any other nazarene school to nazarene theological seminary.
- ~clergy from around the area teach courses.

"the classes offered make you think in a practical-knowledge way."

1) Bible 1 is a required class at olivet, and new professor (and olivet chaplain) mike benson tries to keep the class involved. olivet students consistently comment that the religion classes are some of the most challenging general education classes that they take. (photo by jennifer lovell) 2)

"there is neither jew nor greek ..." exclaims troy gomez as he presents the history of Christianity in a concise presentation for church and Christian living. this is a religion course that all olivet students must take to graduate; it's often a class that moves away from the "know"ledge and into "practical"ity, which is what students enjoy. (photo by joslyn williamson) 3) senior colleen baker concentrates on her activity in one of her classes. baker is a Christian education major who aspires to go into children's ministry when she graduates. (photo by joslyn williamson) 4) kip coffey, stephen foxworthy, trevor young, brennan vidt, keith milcinovic, amber beardslee, jeremy brewer and matt pyle show off their new greek sweatshirts. by the way, guys, what does "zho" mean? (photo by adam schwer)

"often i am asked why i am in r.o.t.c., and all i can say is that God placed me here. i am challenged as a future leader, a nurse, and, most of all, as a Christian. besides, where else would i have the opportunity to wake up at 0530 for a reason, and get to hang out with a unique group of people?" ~staci rutledge, jr.

1) senior andrew chovanchek commands cadets chip nobel, kelli mcdonald, luke wadsworth and christopher crofford as they practice for their color guard before the homecoming football game. wadsworth comments about r.o.t.c., "r.o.t.c. develops personal character more than any other class i've taken. we become the people that protect america! hooah!" (submitted photo) 2) freshman cadet chip nobel plays injured as he and his fellow classmates goof off before getting down to business. (submitted photo) 3) major bill geasa looks on as his cadets staci rutledge, theodore koller and erin pitzer give kids a p.t. (physical training) test during one of the kids' activities during homecoming. p.t.s include sit-ups, push-ups and a small obstacle course put together by the cadets. (submitted photo)

fast facts about department...

~academic and physical requirements must be maintained in order to stay active with r.o.t.c. (2.5 g.p.a.; passing sit-ups, pushups, and two-mile run; workouts two days a week; and class one day a week)

social work

1) julie prairie, ryan counihan, brittany jackson and jeremy pro-cyshen work together as a group during their social work class. although class work is sometimes tedious, it's necessary, as it helps to prepare the students for situations they'll encounter during their internships. (photo by joslyn williamson) 2) april best focuses on yet another body part in her textbook. although this is a very interesting class, it takes a lot of memorizing. human biology is one of the many classes social work majors must take. (photo by kate andersma)

"i want to help needy people, and there are a lot of needy people. i will be getting paid ~mindy spencer, sr.

fast facts about the department

~each year, students go "trick-or-treating for necessities" (soap, toilet paper, shampoo) and donate the "treats" to shelters.

~the department hosts an annual Christmas party for nursing homes.

"i enjoy most the professors. they take care of you outside and inside of class. they're real people."

sociology

1) utilizing olivet's technology, dr. kent olney teaches with powerpoint as a visual for students who are not auditory listeners. dr. olney, chairman of the department of sociology, social work and criminal justice, teaches all of the classes for sociology majors. (photo by brian reinicke) 2) seniors mindy douglas and carla dirks listen attentively to dr. kent olney's lecture during marriage and the family, a class offered to any student interested. this class covers everything from the history of the family to dating and different family problems. dr. olney shares his life and family with students during this class so that students see that he practices what he teaches. (photo by brian reinicke) 3) rebekah gocking and molly sutherland frantically write all that the powerpoint has to say during a class in wisner for sociology. (photo by brian reinicke)

how do you eat a reese's peanut butter cup?

"i scotch-tape one to one of the many playful little squirrels that scamper about in my neighborhood, and then i lay down quietly in our front lawn and make chattering noises until a squirrel comes around. then i pounce upon it, hold it down against the ground and devour the reese's peanut butter cup while it lashes out at me angrily with its claws and sharp teeth. i admit that it's a lot of work and has resulted in some pretty nasty infections, but hey, i'd say it's worth it."

who's who

the 2002–2003 edition of who's who among students in american universities and colleges includes the names of 28 students from olivet nazarene university who were selected as outstanding campus and academic leaders. in october, faculty and junior and senior members of a.s.c. began submitting nominations for the national recognition. all students with the intention of graduating in the fall, spring or summer of 2002–2003 and with a minimum g.p.a. requirement qualified for nomination. of all who were nominated and placed on the final ballot, 28 were elected to receive the who's who honor. election reflects the student's academic achievement, extracurricular involvement, leadership potential and Christian witness.

1) this halloween kristen miller, karla crawford, jenny tjepkema, jaime higgins and jayne hunt recreate a childhood memory - sleepovers. all that they need now is a good chick flick! (submitted photo) 2) who says college students are too old to dress up? katie chapin, holly foster, mindy scott and kara grady were just a few of the many students who celebrated halloween. olivet festivities included a school-wide party with food, crafts, and costume contests among other things. (submitted photo) 3) analyze this: pictured are senior psych majors. after 4 years of rigorous study, these seniors will be moving on to more schooling and/or careers shortly. (submitted photo) 4) teresa vanscoyoc and kelli goodwin are found by the camera out of the large crowd of senior class at ollies follies. these two friends came to the skit and talent presentation to cheer their senior class on. (submitted photo) 5) being a senior certainly drives some silly, as shown here by megan williams. as told by roommate mary faw, williams is indeed a silly character. "one silly things she does is model her pajamas bright and early in the morning." (submitted photo) 6) these seniors allison heckler, heather rush, kayla leach and melissa wagoner get one last shot at their home in parrott before heading out to the apartments to live. these girls met on second floor parrott their sophomore year and will continue to be life-long friends. (submitted photo) 7) the crazy senior volleyball team get together for one last memory. some members have participated all four years during ollies follies games.

how have you changed from your junior year of high school to your junior year of college?

"i have a better grasp on things. i'm more of a spiritual leader to my friends now than i was in high school. i feel free to talk about my relationship with the Lord a lot more now than i used to. i feel like i'm on a constant growing path."

"i am now a Christian."

~amber beardslee

"in my junior year of high school, i was only a Christian for less than a year. i had so many areas to mature in, but the Lord has brought me along. He has brought me to olivet and taught me independence. He has called me to become a doctor and one day serve in the mission field and to love His children throughout the world. but, most importantly, i have learned to live in Him daily by His grace — something that i don't think i understood when i was a junior in high school. i thank Him for humbling me and showing me that by myself, i am nothing."

who is your favorite professor at olivet?

"dr. (michael) benson! besides being an awesome chaplain, he is my Bible professor – but he has taught me so much more than just Bible. he has been a mentor, a role model and, above all, a friend. dr. benson is the most selfless person i have ever met, and he is so real with his students and really cares about the people on this campus." ~beccah beushausen

"dr. (karen) ball is my favorite professor! ... she truly wants to see her students succeed. she makes herself available to her students for extra help." ~amy brooks

"my favorite professor ... would have to be professor (richard) colling. when we started class at the beginning of the year, he stated ... 'it doesn't matter if you have fun in the class (microbiology), because i am going to.' i think that was an awesome ice-breaker for the year." ~jonathan sidener

our thoughts about random things

"the best thing about dorm life is always having fun with others. the worst is fire drills!"

~rebecca miller

"i brought a lot to school. it's a good thing my roommate left, or i wouldn't have any room for it all."

~kari branson

"the first day i was here ... [my roommate's lamp] fell from the ceiling and onto my computer chair and caught it on fire. it set off the smoke alarms and the entire building was evacuated."

~dayna keelor

"life without a.c. stinks! we had three fans in our room. ... thank goodness for two windows!"

~rachel van der veen

"i brought two suitcases with me from brazil. the suitcase full of clothes never arrived. this taught me material things come and go, but the Lord's faithfulness remains forever."

philippians 3:13-14 (n.i.v.)

"brothers, i do not consider myself yet to have taken hold of it. but one thing i do: forgetting what is behind and straining toward what is ahead, i press on toward the goal to win the prize for which God has called me heavenward in Christ Jesus."

at this level, one of the key ingredients for success is experience; however, the 2002 tigers featured over 60 underclassmen and only six seniors. but by season's end, these tigers proved experience is only a fraction of the winning equation.

getting off to a rough start, the team dropped their first four contests; yet, by midseason, both sides of the ball made giant strides. their improvement was marked by their four victories in the last six games of the season; the two losses were against nationally ranked mckendree and league co-champion st. xavier.

despite their young status, olivet proved that sheer heart and determination go further than experience. their week-by-week improvement and hard work paid off and turned the campaign into a successful one.

men's soccer

jon christensen, so.

we came into this year with high expectations for the team. coming off last year's great season, we figured we'd do even better. we ended up losing some close games that could have gone either way, but through that, we learned that you have to keep pressing on. through these struggles, we grew closer as a team. another trial our team went through was the death of tyler hari's brother, troy. as a team, we went down to the funeral services. i can honestly say it was the most amazing service i have ever been through. during the service, the gospel was presented, and the place was filled with non-Christians. ... it was neat to see how God used that to plant seeds and draw us all closer to Him. james 1:2-4 says, 'consider it pure joy, my brothers, whenever you face trials of many kinds, because you know that the testing of your faith develops perseverance. perseverance must finish its work so that you may be mature and complete, not lacking anything.'

men's soccer attracted many student fans this year, as the team showed its amazing talents. the team's combination of fancy footwork, passing, headers and power-filled-shots was something to see.

the tigers defeated several high-caliber opponents this season, such as indiana institute of technology, lincoln college, st. ambrose university, mt. st. claire college, grace college, kendall college, cornerstone university and robert morris college. leadership this year came from junior captain josh sollie and sophomore captain jon christensen.

the team had a tough season filled with injuries and overtime play: four games went into double overtime.

colossians 3:23 (n.i.v.)

"whatever you do, work at it with all your heart, as working for the Lord, not for men ..."

philippians 4:13 (n.i.v.)

"i can do everything through Him who gives me strength."

with the goal of giving glory to God through everything, the lady tigers took the field expecting to achieve excellence. this season, the team grew in strength, leadership, depth and numbers.

"the women's soccer team is an awesome group of girls who share two things in common: our love and talent for the game of soccer, as well as our love and willingness to serve God," kari sloan said. "we've been blessed in many areas. God has been with us throughout the whole season, and we always give Him credit for everything."

mindy boehme, laura ober and sloan provided direction and strength through their roles as captains. the defense was directed by sophomore goalkeeper brittany driffill, sweeper adelaide anderson and outside back erin kring. senior boehme and sophomore emily ouimette led the offense and secured 13 regular season wins. ouimette broke the school record for career scoring, and she still has two years to add to her record. she also led the team as it competed in the n.c.c.a.a. nationals.

"... not only that, but we also glory in tribulations, knowing that tribulation produces perseverance; and perseverance produces character; and character hope. now hope does not disappoint. because the love of God has been poured out in our hearts by the Holy Spirit who was given to us" (romans 5:3-5). i have found that this verse is not only true on the soccer field, but also in our everyday life. most don't realize that sufferings actually make us stronger. it gives us patience to continue, strength in character and the hope to push through the tribulation. on the field, we need to take the joy (as hard as that may be) in our losses, because it allows us to see our weaknesses and improve. knowing our weaknesses leads to character. we then receive hope and confidence in ourselves and our teammates to accomplish our goals. this season, our saying has been to "see the goal beyond the goal": to see the goal of nationals, but beyond that, to see the goal of being a light reflecting Jesus on and off the field. my challenge to everyone is to take joy in your sufferings, because God is molding you to be more like Jesus. learn to see the goal beyond the goal.

before the season began, there was talk of greatness. but this volleyball team exceeded all expectations, rising to the top of the ladder in excellence. the tigers never doubted themselves, and they put their hearts into accomplishing what they knew they could.

this year, the tigers were victorious, capturing the national christian college athletic association and chicagoland collegiate athletic conference titles. the ladies on this team were excited that they could use their skills on the court for God.

as coach brenda williams noted, "it was a team effort that landed them championships. the depth of the squad paid off as every player was ready to ... step up her play. each player made the team better, and they played with amazing chemistry."

romans 8:37 (n.i.v.)

"no, in all these things we are more than conquerors through Him who loved us."

rachel studebaker, so.

being at o.n.u. and having the opportunity to play volleyball is a door God opened for me, and i have never regretted walking through that door. the relationships i have developed within this group, coaches and players alike, are irreplaceable. these people are those whom i have the privilege of being surrounded by, the ones that challenge me to grow spiritually as a leader and a player. this team goes much deeper than volleyball. the strongest part of our game is the fact that we draw our strength, as individuals and as a team, from Christ. He is our stronghold, our rock. the reason we play is so that He may be glorified. this year has been a completely different experience that goes beyond the additions and losses to the roster. this team carries a whole new attitude of selflessness. knowing that we would have a young team, playing with new girls in new positions all over the court, it was exciting to come into this season knowing that we were choosing to be "more than conquerors through Him who loved us."

the majority of my life has been easy. i have had the privilege of growing up in a wonderful Christian home, and i committed my life to Christ at an early age. over the past couple of years, however, i have dealt with adversity. as humans, it is hard to see our need for God when we are high on the mountaintop. it is in the valley when we are broken and molded where we see the necessity for a deep, personal relationship with God, and where we see that He is the only source of strength. people and material things will always let us down, but because of His mercy and grace, He is our one constant. during some of those difficult times, i was constantly praying and pleading with God to take away and remove my pain. i truly did not want it in my life any longer. it was then that God showed me james 1:1: "consider it pure joy" has new meaning in my life. i am learning not to pray for God to remove pain and the source of pain, but for patience and strength to endure the hardships as long as He wants to teach me lessons and allow me to grow closer to Him.

before the start of the season, both the men's and women's teams were labeled potential favorites for winning their respective regionals. they not only captured conference and regional crowns, but also had impressive showings at their respective national meets.

senior lynnae yates led a squad that coach mike mcdowell could not even field last season. yates not only paced the tigers to both conference and regional titles, but she also won both herself.

for the men, sophomores chris frasier and nicholas gatlin guided the tigers to conference and regional championships.

"we made great strides in our individual abilities," coach mcdowell commented. "both squads consist of great athletes who are great people off the field."

psalm 121 is what keeps me going. "i lift my eyes to the hills — where does my help come from? my help comes from the Lord, the Maker of heaven and earth. He will not let your foot slip — He who watches over you will not let you slumber; indeed, He who watches over israel will not slumber. the Lord watches over you — the Lord is your shade at your right hand; the sun will not harm you by day, nor the moon by night. the Lord will keep you from all harm — He will watch over your life; the Lord will watch over your coming and going both now and forevermore." it is always good to know that the Lord will carry you on and keep you through all the work of the sport. it is comforting to know that God is keeping me through everything in life.

team unity, trust, friendship and loyalty were all important aspects of this year's cheerleading squad. the squad's goal was to put maximum effort and spirit into routines in order to keep the crowd involved in the game. there were new cheers, stunts and dances created to keep the student section cheering.

the cheerleaders started off their year at summer cheerleading camp, where they perfected their stunts and tumblers. camp and their many practices that followed led up to their performances at games. the biggest event for the squad this season was their routine performed at halftime during the homecoming game.

"whatever you do, work at it with all your heart, as working for the Lord, not for men."

losing four of the top five scorers from the previous season would leave most teams in shambles, but the tigers refused to change their positive outlook. the proverbial "rebuilding" label was put on the team, yet they kept the attitude found in the verse they refer to often.

often, coaches will highlight a certain win total as a goal for the season; however, head coach ralph hodge, in his 23rd season, took a developmental approach with this team. despite the number of unknowns, the tigers knew if they grew and developed each week, the outcome would be a positive one. backing down was not an option the tigers considered.

most members of my family on both sides are Christians, including both my parents. so that lifestyle was expected of me as well. when i was old enough to make decisions and find things out for myself, i chose that lifestyle, not because of my family or because it was forced upon me, but because it was my own choice. playing basketball has only helped me with my obligation to reach others for Christ. the game has, hopefully, not only impacted my life, but the lives of others, too. basketball can be used as a tool to touch others who otherwise would not be reached, and i hope that i have done that through my career.

after a year that saw a rash of season-ending and bothersome injuries, the women's basketball team entered the 2002-03 campaign healthy and served up an exciting brand of up-tempo basketball in an always-tough chicagoland collegiate athletic conference.

lanita thomas, erica martin, keaton brumm, shelley broughton, niki disch, melissa odell, cara landis, stacey maurer, carrie althoff, kasey mcdowell and christina kelsch. they were just some of the tigers that were a force to face this season. that depth proved to be one of the tigers' greatest assets — and they needed it for a brutal schedule that featured several of the n.a.i.a.'s top 25 teams.

that luxury of talent should also prove valuable in the future, as the tigers will lose just four seniors from this year's squad.

God has put me her for a reason. i respect that and i am proud of my years spent here. i will miss my coaches and all of my teammates greatly. the sScripture that best describes my life is 'in this life there will be troubles, but take heart! i have overcome the world' (john 16:33)."

mitsch haas, mark hervey, fermin amezqueta, aaron gregory and jamie acosta put on quite a show for olivet tennis fans this year. their efforts were matched by teammates a.j. sansom, jeremy gorbail, scott smith and joel gibbs. the men finished their fall season 5-2, one of the greatest fall showings in tiger history. the team also continued its six-year streak of having n.a.i.a. academic all-americans. the spring season began with a trip to hilton head, s.c., for training and competition.

"playing tennis here at olivet has been so much more than an accumulation of wins and losses. all the fun times i have had off-court with my teammates, the support from our dedicated 'parent fan club', the compassion and care from our coaches, and being able to share my faith with the girls are some of the memories that i will carry with me forever. i'll always remember the time when we won regionals this year. amidst all the hype and excitement, our team stopped and huddled together to praise God for making our victory possible; that's what it's all about. when i'm out there on the court, i know who i'm playing for, and He is my motivation to play my hardest. thank you, my Father, for my teammates, my coaches, all the parents, all our abilities and for the blessed opportunity to glorify you through the game of tennis (1 corinthians 10:31)."

the women's tennis team scored a repeat this season, as they won the regional title for the second consecutive year and qualified to compete in the n.a.i.a. national tournament in peach tree, fla.

kelli harris, first in singles and doubles, led the team. michele williams partnered with her in doubles and claimed second in singles. jamie hamstra (third in singles and second in doubles) and amanda savage (fourth in singles and second in doubles) were also standout players this season.

winning on the court was not the end of the tiger success story. olivet tennis continued their tradition of academic excellence, as the tigers were the second-ranked n.a.i.a. scholar team with a 3.561 cumulative grade average.

jason miller, so.

"i've been playing baseball for as long as i can remember. it has always been something where i could get away from everything else. being able to play here at olivet has been a great experience. it's been great to be a part of a good bunch of christian guys. when you can have a team whose focus is on christ and be as close as we are, it's always something special. baseball is a great tool to use to witness to others, on and off the field. also, with our baseball team, we have different bible studies, which are great for accountability and growth. when you have a team that believes the same things, it brings everyone that much closer. i think baseball has also taught me many things that have helped in all areas of life — from how to play as a team to discipline and work ethic. i consider it a great blessing to be able to play baseball, and God has taught me many things through it."

coming off their first world series berth in university history, the tigers knew expectations would be higher in this campaign. despite lofty goals, these tigers, knowing victories are a by-product of solid play, chose to take one game at a time.

to reach their goals — which included a conference championship — the tigers looked to the leadership and experience of their upperclassmen. ben colling, tony sykes, adam churchill and ben zobrist had all earned all-american recognition from the year before.

ultimately, however, the tigers knew in their heart that if they executed and played with the same intensity against every opponent, their season would fall into place.

philippians 4:13 (n.i.v.)

"i can do everything through Him who gives me strength."

proverbs 21:31 (n.i.v.)

"the horse is made ready for the day of battle, but victory rests with the Lord."

last year the softball team had a 46-13 record, earning the c.c.a.c. regular season and tournament championships and finishing 15th in the n.a.i.a. national rankings. with hope of repeated and continued success, the tigers took the field for the 2003 season. nine new players joined nine veterans sporting the purple and gold jerseys ready to have a season of personal and team improvement. this team was very young, but also very talented.

liz beirne, emily johnston and becky foster took the mound facing catchers alison konsoer and danielle zagorski. the infield was manned by lauren gidcumb, kallie keith, amanda jensen, alicia hammel, katie hageman, kylie fenter and lisa bergmann, while cassandra berger, liz pasch, tiffany jones, christina sheldon and jen ryan found themselves in the outfield. the tiger defense was sound and anchored by one of the best middle infielders in the country.

"my entire life, i was brought up in an environment where morals and values were not only emphasized, but they were also a way of life. how you treat people and how you treat yourself is not only a reflection on you, but it is also a reflection on your character and beliefs. ... through my time here at olivet, i believe that my character and beliefs have grown significantly. i have found my character reinforced every year, especially in my junior year when i tore my a.c.l. ... and through my experience with this injury, i found my belief and relationship with God also begin to grow stronger. for me, next to God and my family and friends, softball is everything. it is what i absolutely love doing the most. and with this injury, my world came crashing down with the almost certain possibility of not playing. ... i turned to God for direction, and He showed me that what i had been emphasizing my whole life upon [was the] problem. He showed me that my character, which consisted of hard work, dedication, will and perseverance, along with my faith and trust in Him, would ultimately ... get me back to playing softball again. ... romans 5:3-4 says, 'but we also rejoice in our sufferings, because we know that suffering produces perseverance; perseverance, character; and character, hope.' hard work and dedication will get you to the top, but character is what keeps you there."

“do you not know? have you not heard? the Lord is the everlasting God, the Creator of the ends of the earth. He does not faint or grow weary; His understanding is unsearchable. He gives power to the faint, and strengthens the powerless. even youths will faint and be weary, and the you will fall exhausted; but those who wait on the Lord shall renew their strength, they shall mount up with wings like eagles, they shall run and not be weary, they shall walk and not faint’ (isaiah 40:28–31).

running is not an easy sport, but whenever i am racing, and i hit a wall, i think of these verses. these verses remind me that God is there with me, and that He will lift me up and renew my strength when i feel that i cannot go on any longer. God is amazing, and although we all hit walls in our lives, this pas-sage is a great reminder that He will be there to carry us through.

1) john huffman grimaces and flails his arms — all in an effort to jump as far as he can in the long jump. (photo by aaron tagert) 2) lynnae yates, a long-distance runner, rounds the fourth turn and heads toward the finish line. endurance is key when running in a long event. (photo by aaron tagert) 3) simone mulieri holds on to her slight lead as she heads in for the finish. mulieri, who ran track for the first time this year, discovered that she loved running — just not in the cold! (photo by aaron tagert) 4) pictured is the 2002–03 women’s track team, coached by michael mcdowell. (photo by the image group) 5) josh franklin releases the hammer and watches it fly. throwers have to put in extra time and work to perfect their throwing skills. (photo by aaron tagert) 6) pictured is the 2002–03 men’s track team, coached by michael mcdowell. (photo by the image group) 7) luke hays and chris fraser lead the pack and push hard to increase their lead. one of o.n.u.’s strengths is that the team trains to be as fast as each other. during events where more than one runner from each team is running, tiger runners are often side-by-side and in front. (photo by aaron tagert) recruiting was the name of the game for track coach michael mcdowell. through his extensive recruiting efforts, the track squad doubled in size from last year and had a lot of freshmen who showed quite a bit of talent.

the men's team finished third at the n.c.c.a.a. indoor meet in 2002, and looked to compete for the championship title this year. donald woodard was amazing to watch in the high hurdles. the strength of cross-training showed when michael silsby released the shot put and hammer.

the speed that dennisha veal and lee pennington used during the 100- and 200-meter dashes was almost unreal. in the longer 5,000-meter run, lynnae yates made the tiger fans roar.

nick griffin, sr.

"over the past four years, the club volleyball program has had many ups and downs. and now, as i look back on my time with the team, i'm reminded of how much my college experience was positively shaped by those friendships that were formed through volleyball. no matter how good or bad things got in our lives, the moment we stepped out on that court, everything else seemed to fade away and we became a team. even when our core group of players seemed to change each year, one thing remained constant: our love of the game and our desire to see the program continue to grow. and with this being my last season, i want to show my gratitude to all of those involved by doing my part so that we can take a shot at the conference title and go to nationals."

in its 15th year of existence, the club volleyball team travels throughout the midwest to play worthy competition. as at other universities, club volleyball is not an intercollegiate sport at olivet. team members play solely for the love of the game. this close-knit group of men log long hours in the gym.

race, i have kept the faith."

1) dominating the softball scene, sparky and the igniters took home both the league and world series championships. (submitted photo) 2) the killer bees stung the "c" bracket and captured the coed sand volleyball championship. (submitted photo) 3) while surely some fierce euchre tournament action is taking place around him, derek bowshier tries to find which card will win him a trick. (photo by kate andersma) 4) aptly named, the bob squad would not settle for second-best on the sand, as the team won the "a" bracket coed volleyball postseason championship. (submitted photo) 5) the junior class ran over the seniors en route to their powder-puff football championship. (submitted photo) 6) adam tudor flashes his new apparel after winning the men's singles tennis championship. (submitted photo) 7) playing their best when it counted, these guys claimed the coed sand volleyball "b" league postseason tournament championship. (submitted photo) 8) not accepting anything less than a championship, garfield and friends brought home just that, as they captured the coed soccer league championship. (submitted photo)

raymond sthay, fr.

"when i first came to olivet, i had a hard time meeting new people, but through intramurals, i've made new friends and hopefully made some lifelong relationships. God has granted me the opportunity to play with great athletes in the sports i love. it's great to see everyone come together as brothers in Christ before each game; to see a large group of guys come together and genuinely pray for each other's safety is very encouraging. and as i continue my education at olivet, i'll look back and remember the bonds i've made while still looking forward to the new friendships that await me."

1 thessalonians 5:11 (n.i.v.)

"therefore encourage one another and build each other up, just as in fact you are doing."

intramurals

1) director of intramurals bob kring seems hard at work during an intramural contest. kring has been here three years and is loved by all. each year, there has been an increase in intermural involvement due to his passion and organization. (submitted photo) 2) of the monday/wednesday league, the dirty sanchez claimed the coed soccer regular season championship. (submitted photo) 3) the junior powder-puff football team is all smiles after topping the senior class and being crowed gridiron champions. (submitted photos) 4) striking fear into the hearts of sand volleyball opponents, the dingleberries ended their season victorious as they took home the "a" division regular season championship. (submitted photo) 5) looks like a hand of mostly numbers, which are usually not helpful in the wonderful world of euchre. hopefully this intermural euchre player's partner will have the cards needed to win the round. (photo by kate andersma) 6) this year's version of the frogs, frogs II, battled fiercely against the competition. (submitted photo) 7) bringing an international flavor to the field, the united nations took home not only the international championship, but also the world cup trophy. (submitted photo) 8) the justice league came through in the clutch and captured the coed soccer postseason tournament championship. (submitted photo)

photos in this book, or in any year-book, are key to its quality, and the way olivet is marked down in history forever in 2003 aurora. we are proud of our photography this year. getting pictures for every activity, sports event, club, organization and ministry was not an easy task. megan o'connell spent her junior year coordinating this year's photography staff. thank you, megan! and thank you beyond words to the photographers from the aurora staff.

special thanks also goes to each and every student, faculty member and staff member who submitted photos this year. this was a vital part of our people section, as well as many other areas of the book. thank you for supporting the 2003 aurora staff.

a big thanks goes to brian reinicke for cleaning up and fixing many of our pictures. thank you for helping us improve the quality of our pictures.

thank-yous

we are continuing our tradition of thank yous in the back of the book. obviously, we could not mention everyone, but know that the entire olivet community has been absolutely crucial to the success of this book, for without you, this book would not be. we hope this book has helped define olivet without putting it in a box. and we hope that all who read this book enjoy it.

-the aurora staff

stephanie mcnelly, assistant editor

i want to thank my parents and brother for being there for me and for always supporting me. rin, thank you for being a wonderful friend and roommate. i thank you for all the support you've given me and for lending me your shoulder to cry or vent on. donna, thank you for all the support and love you've given me. i thank you for caring about me and constantly challenging me to grow. you're the greatest. to emily, faith, erin, ashley, stipp, ross and kari, you girls are the greatest. i thank God that i got the chance to meet and work with all of you. you've all challenged me in different ways, and i appreciate all of you. to my girls on the coolest floor in williams, i love you all and want to thank you for supporting me and allowing me to spend endless hours down in the yearbook office. all of you rock, and i thank God that he brought all 30 of you into my life. i have learned so much from you. third-south rocks! to rumbley, you rock, girl. it was a blast having so many classes with you. i look forward to spending even more time hanging out with you next year. thank you for your support and friendship (p.s. don't forget about our undercover assignment). josh, what can i say to you, girl? you're awesome. i can't believe you were crazy enough to run this yearbook for two years, but you've done an awesome job. thank you for trusting me to finish your book this semester. thank you for putting up with all my questions, but, most importantly, thank you for being my friend and caring about me. you better keep in touch after graduation, or else. to heather, thank you for all the hard work that you do to make sure that we have a wonderful book. your dedication and sacrifice are much appreciated. to the staff, i want to thank each and every one of you for all of the hard work that you put in. we have a truly awesome book because of the sacrifices you made this year. thank you. and finally, i want to thank Jesus for giving me this wonderful opportunity this year. there have been good times and bad times, but He has never let me go. i thank You, Jesus, for your unending love and grace.

there are four people that really deserve the credit for the greatness of the u.l. section: lori, joslyn, stephanie and mary. i know that my schedule has been crazy this year, but you four picked up my slack and didn't hate me for my nonexistence (especially you, lori; you have no idea how much i appreciate you). jon, i think milo's famous phrase fits you perfectly. you truly are the "bestest in the westest." how did i get so lucky? to my english major posse, i salute you. you are the definition of friendship. megs, lumpy, kcowles and jen, thanks for being real, for trying to understand, for being honest and, in spite of everything, still loving me. and to those i've forgotten (but will remember as soon as i send this off), thanks.

lori shand, university life

first, i would like to thank jos, because without your constant dedication, this book would never have gotten finished. i've loved working with you the past few years. you're always there to pick me up and, of course, make me laugh. we've had some fun times together! thanks for all of the encouragement and help that you've provided me with this past year. you're the best! good luck wherever you find yourself next year. i'll miss you! steph, you've also been a big help this year and an encouragement to just keep going even when i'm ready to quit. tiff, my wonderful co-editor, we did it! there were times i wondered if we would get it done, but we did, and we had fun (most of the time). the staff, thanks for helping with pictures and captions. this book is a team effort and you guys pulled through when we needed you. mary, the layouts are great! megan, thanks for getting pictures to us and being so flexible! andrea, melissa and stace, you guys are the best roommates! thanks for putting up with me, even during my late-night craziness and my whining (not too much of that, though, right?). you guys are such a blessing to me in my life. to all my other friends, thanks for always being there through it all. we've had some great times together and you'll always be precious to me.

christy courtney, academics first, I would like to thank jos. you're a wonderful editor and i appreciate all the help and things you did for me and my section this year. and you'll never know how much i appreciated the little cards you sent in the mail; those really put a smile on my face! thanks to stephanie mcnelly and the rest of the yearbook staff for all the help you gave me. i'd also like to thank my dad and mom (ron and sheleena) for always being there for me and supporting me in everything i do. you both have taught me so much, and i'm so glad i have you guys as parents! i could never thank you enough for the love and patience you've given me through the last few years. you guys are the best and i love you both! also, to my sisters (alicia and brittany), you guys are awesome sisters and i see great potential in both of you! i love you both! to my great roommate and friend, beccah, even though you get up really early ;), i love being your roommate and couldn't think of anyone else that i would rather room with! we've had some fun times and good memories, and i'm only looking forward to more fun and memories. foremost, i want to thank God for always being there for me. i'd also like to thank all the students and administration from olivet that helped me out with quotes and pictures for the academics section. you guys are what make the yearbook great! thanks!

i want to thank everyone, especially the awesome year-book staff who helped do most of the faculty section. thanks to my wonderful roommate, christy, and her cat that goes "gggrrrr" and to sandra no. 1 and sandra see and shauna for helping me think of questions. thanks also to the people who make the wonderful reeses peanut butter cups so that we can think of weird ways to devour them. and thanks to everyone else who helped and contributed in some way, especially those on the faculty and staff. thank you!

laurie wells, faculty/staff

laurie schirding, seniors

Jesus, thank you for being the rock on which i lean upon daily. brett, what can i say? you've become my best friend. thank you all the countless things you do for me. joslyn, your friendship has become very special to me over this past year. thank you for being there to listen, talk and make corn dollops with me. we have way too much fun together! andrea, another year down and ... oh, we're done! these two years have flown by. we've been through both frustration and laughter. thank you. candace and mindy, it's been great getting to know you two better this year. you two are the best summer neighbors two girls could have! mom and dad, thanks for all of your love and support. i don't know who i would be without you. betaba, what would i do without you? you're always making me laugh. don't give up! i love you all.

brittany jackson, juniors

i'd like to thank first and foremost the members of the junior class who put up with and replied to my countless e-mails and sent in so many pictures. without you, this section would not exist. i thank you so much! jos, thanks for making me feel welcome in my first year and for patiently showing me the ropes. adam, your friendship means more to me than you probably know. God has truly blessed our friendship throughout the years. thank you for all the aurora office chats during dinner. it's a playground! kate, thanks for scanning all my numerous pictures. thank you, too, to all the staff in the student accounts office for letting me off work numerous times to work on my section. stephanie, we'll just keep our idea for what to do inside the office on the d.l.! thanks for the laughs. thank you to my roommates for putting up with me when i was stressed over getting this section done. mom and dad, you've always been my biggest fans and supporters throughout my entire life, especially while i've been here at school. you've been behind me in all my activities, like yearbook, and rejoiced with me in my accomplishments. i know forever that i have love at home and i love you both more than you could ever know (mbacpbnb). i saved the best for last: my Lord, who has and is continually proving His faithfulness to me. He is my strength, my hope, my Savior and my purpose for living. it's my joy to honor Him and bring glory to His name alone.

beccah beushausen, sophomores

another year gone by... i can hardly believe it! this year was quite a journey, not only within yearbook, but also in life. for me, it was a year full of lessons and growth. there is no way that i could have made it through the year without my roommate for college and friend for life, christy. it's been a blast and i look forward to many more great times together down the road! a huge shout-out to the entire sophomore class! it was awesome to get such an overwhelming response from everyone with quotes and pictures. you made our section what it is, and i thank you all for being so willing to help out and contribute! this year, the school gained a new chaplain and professor, and many students gained a friend, in dr. michael benson. i'm so thankful for his guidance and his willingness to play an active role in my own life. last, but certainly not least, i want to thank my loving Savior, Jesus. this year, i learned that sometimes it takes rough circumstances to make us see how much we really need Christ. knowing that He could have stayed in heaven, but came to earth in poverty and no fame, and was persecuted, even to the point of death, for my salvation — i mean, wow! there are no words to fully express my thankfulness for all He has done. i thank my Creator for always being there for me, even on all of those days that i don't go to Him. Jesus, friends, faculty and year-book staff, thank you.

"thank you, india/thank you, terror/thank you, disillusionment/thank you frailty/thank you, consequence/thank you, thank you, silence."

sometimes, alanis morrisette says it best. actually, i would like to thank my cats for keeping me company, and after graduation, we'll start our farm in the trailer. penny, thank you for bringing the other dancing hamster to school. you completed our flock. jorge, thank you for holding the key to my heart; we will get engaged at perry farm. thanks to the girls for establishing the list council. we have bylaws. thanks to the dudes for squirming during list council. i'd like to thank everyone who sledged down the stairs on the sleeping bags; it was hilarious. grandma anal thanks everyone for being patient on chi trips. thanks to all my buddies who took me to the eternal flame; m-action did reign supreme. i'd like to thank the makers of capri sun and pretzels; you kept me alive this year. 4th north, we definitely were late-night beasts, and you're all fabulous gals. i'd like to thank chris allison, my twin, even though we didn't make into this book after all. i'd like to thank my family for supporting me, especially when i forgot that midnight on a weekday was not an appropriate time to call to chat. most importantly, i thank God for bringing me to Olivet and blessing me so much more greatly than I deserve.

tricia miller, clubs & organizations

thanks to all the wonderful contact people who got their stuff back to me and made it easier to put this thing together. thanks to my roommate — the best roommate on this campus — jen oates, for her patience with me on deadlines and for always being there when i needed her. thanks also to all the people who waited for the computer while i used it and to all the people who waited for me when i wasn't ready to leave at the time we'd decided on. without megan, mary and kate, the clubs and organizations section would never have made it to this book. joslyn and stephanie are my newest heroes. their patience is astounding and the extent of their knowledge, incredible. last of all, thanks to Jesus, who gave me more grace than even joslyn and stephanie. His direction has been invaluable. as paul wrote in the beginning of my section, "do it all for the glory of God."

trisha gross, spiritual life

thanks goes out to my editors, joslyn and stephanie. you two put in a lot of work and effort helping me with this section — and joslyn, if you ever give me the "but there is no one else to do it," i will learn how to say no! there will be no more being as tense as "uh, what?" and to all the staff, including megan, kate, mary, tiffany and 'cia, you all are great! special thanks to adam; you were a great help and did a lot for me. thanks!! thanks, roomies; you're both great! my best friends, joslyn and erin, thanks for all the smiles and special memories, like the "real lady's man," johnnie, wendy's and nertz. a person could not ask for better friends than you two; i love you. ryan, i don't know what i would have done without your help and support in both year-book and omega, and just letting me vent. thanks for being patient and being a great friend. to all my omega friends, especially my team, judah, jerry, jen, jess and ryan, thanks for all the support, prayer and, especially, patience!! thanks to the glimmerglass staff for sharing me this year. thanks to amy lee, rodger doss, andy maynard, stephanie quimby, kara krestal and all my friends!! a very special thank-you goes out to tara beth moore and the whole spiritual life council for all your hard work and help on this section. you guys are all great! most importantly, i want to thank my Lord and Savior for showing me over and over that His grace is sufficient and for giving me strength when i really didn't have any.

jessie oliver, sports

i'm thankful for God giving me unique avenues to use my passions and abilities for His glory. i was blessed by working with an amazing staff who really did everything possible to help me make deadlines and not go insane! special thanks goes out to all o.n.u. coaches, athletes who wrote testimonies, international athletes, jonathan tran for taking awesome pictures and dave tabbert for extra help on the cheerleading page.

caleb benoit, sports

i would like to thank our Lord and Savior for His endless mercy and grace and for His countless blessings, as well as for giving me the the opportunity to be a part of the aurora staff. thanks to all the coaches, athletes and the sports information department for their cooperation and eagerness to help us out. finally, thanks to the rest of the aurora staff for all their help and patience in guiding me along the way.

sarah gifford, index

i would really like to thank my parents. they have been a big support this year, even 2,000 miles away. it never mattered what was going on; i could always call them and expect encouragement. their love and support just keeps giving, and i'm really thankful for that.

thanks to joslyn for being so cheerful despite your literally endless hours

spent in the office. i would have gone crazy in your shoes. you have awesome endurance and great patience. you'll make the perfect elementary school teacher, considering all you've been through this year! also, thank you, jos, for your couch. it was very comfortable. yeah, you and countless other people have seen me sleep on it numerous occasions; you really should donate it to the office (we could make a plaque in you honor). stephanie, you're awesome and great to brainstorm with. i can't wait to start working on next year's book with you! thanks also to the rest of the yearbook staff for your ideas and support. you're fun people, so don't let that spirit die. i'd also like to thank my roommates, megan williams and mary-jane cary, for tolerating me throughout all my stress. i'd like to thank some other buddies of mine whose random visits to the aurora office drove me back to consciousness: mr. t. whetstone and mr. e. musyoka, neither of you thought you'd make it back here, did you? i'd also like to thank security for unlocking the doors for my late-night vigils, amanda adams for being a sweetie, alicia stepney for being real and angie miramontez for being fun. there are tons of other people that have helped me make it through this year; the most omnipotent one is the Christ Himself.

for the yearbook this semester. you all did an awesome job and it has been much appreciated. one person i owe so much thanks to is kristina cloud. kristina could not have come into my life at a better time. she has helped me to grow in my relationship with Christ in ways i never thought possible. she has been there for me when no one else has been. not only is she there for me in my good times, but also in the hard times. i never in a million years thought i would be so close to a friend that i wouldn't have to say anything at all and she would already know what i was thinking. i just want to say thanks for being such a great roommate, best friend and accountability partner. God has truly blessed me with your friendship. i love you so much! i next want to thank my sisters, who have been there to encourage me when i didn't think i could make it another day in college. they have been incredible role models to me, showing me that it's possible to stay strong in your walk with Christ even when the going gets tough and that He will carry you through anything.

thanks for putting up with me for all those years while i was the annoying little sister who followed you everywhere. it was only because i wanted to be just like you when i grew up. however, i've wondered what i was ever thinking when i thought that. just joking, guys; i love you! the last two people that i want to thank are my dad and mom. they have been so supportive of me in every decision that i have ever made and i cannot express how much that has meant to me. let me tell you, i have had some pretty crazy ideas, too. they've been there urging me along and helping me not to get too stressed out about dumb, meaningless stuff. they've shown me what it means to live a life for God. i love you guys so much. i couldn't have been blessed with better parents had i gotten to choose them myself. thanks for being so awesome!

team: this book is ours!

joslyn williamson, executive editor

let's enjoy every second of it! lots of sacrifice, blood (okay, maybe not), time and energy have been put into this (o.k., so the blood was a little much!). stephanie mcnelly: you're amazing! to do what you have done has been incredible. there is no one else in the world that i would leave "my baby" with to finish. i'm proud of how you've grown and learned about leadership this year throughout the many different activities you're involved in. you've become a close friend and someone i love very much! i wish you luck and joy next year as you venture out to the "random" world of your senior year! i can't wait to see your book! megan o'connell: you, too, my friend, are unbelievable. you came in and conquered the picture thing when no one else could! you're the most busy person i know and, yet, you did an incredible job on this book! i've been so thankful for your time and energy you put into the book. jason brabson: well, kiddo, we did it! four years of knowing each other, and we still like each other! i'm so thankful for the opportunity to travel with you and be your sister for two years, and then move to co-workers with this yearbook! you've been on top of things, and i'm so thankful for your willingness to take on this task. what can i say? you're the rock, man! mary faw: you're truly the queen of graphics. this book looks great because of your dedication. thank you so much for always wearing a smile and especially for being real! you made stuff not so stressful because you're so relaxed. i'm so thankful that i was able to know you this year. lori shand: dearest pinky, you never cease to amaze me. i can't even tell you how many times you not only brightened my day, but helped me change my whole perspective on things. your cheerful disposition and big bright pink smile make everything o.k. plus, you do an incredible job at yearbook! i didn't get to spend as much time with you as i did last year, but it was still so fun! the u.l. section looks so good! i'm so proud of the two years of work you've done! tiffany demint: you had one tough year, huh? i'm so glad you pulled through and got your section done, though; it looks great! just think, had you not done this, all those siblings would have not been pictured! no matter what you do when you grow up, you will be wonderful at it. you're beautiful, and when you laugh, the whole room laughs with you. christy courtney: this was tough this year, but i was thankful for your help with academics. thank you for your sacrifice. laurie wells: the faculty section looks so good! i'm so glad you came to olivet, and i'm also glad you got involved with the aurora team! you were a great asset! laurie "belle" schirding: i can't even tell you using words how much your friendship means to me. not only are you an incredible roommate, but you're also someone i'll always look to for a good time! you were always there for me, even when i didn't deserve it. thank you for being honest with me. thank you for everything from the wind in my face, corn dollops, cooking hamburger helper and biscuits to our crazy movie days all summer. you are amazing! i'm a better person because i know you. brittany jackson: honestly, girl, you did an awesome job, and i didn't even see you in the office much! you're so dedicated to life; it was so fun to get to know you this year! the juniors will be proud of this when they see it! beccah beushausen: you got in there and did it, even though at times, you didn't know what you were doing! your section looks so good, and i'm so glad you joined our team this year through your roommate. jessica allison: i must be honest with you: you're probably one of the craziest girls i've ever met. thank you for always chillin' and getting your section done. it looks so great! thank you for amusing me with your thanks-yous; you crack me up! tricia miller: you came in and took on the biggest section in the book and did a great job! it was so huge, and i'm proud of the job you did. i hope you won't give up on yearbook because you are good. trisha gross: well, it was true: there was no one else to do this section, and i'm sure you now know why, but i'm so thankful you stuck to it. you were like the little train that could: "i knew you could, i knew you could." also, have i told you lately how much you mean to me? not only are you a person i've known longer than most other people (it sounds nicer than "i've known you for half my life"), you're also an extraordinary, straight-up, honest, fun-loving, God-seeking, music-listenin'-to, bestestestestest friend i could ever have. i'll never be able to thank you enough for the impact you've had on my life, but if the words thank you could hold the weight hey mean, you wouldn't be able to fit them on olivet's campus. thank you for investing in my friendship even when i pretty much wasn't there for you. you're the best clean-slate-giver ever! also, thanks for loving the same music as i do (with exception of eminem); i love jammin' out to our homemade jtv1 c.d.! and just so you know, when you're stressed, you're about as tense as a — did i really say that?!. i love you. adam schwer: thanks for helping trish all you could during the deadlines. also, thanks for always scaring me; you keep me on my toes. also, thanks for your "deep theological thoughts" that got our mind off yearbook way more often than they should have! it was much appreciated! caleb benoit and jessie oliver: it was a privilege to work with two busy athletes such as yourself. this section is sharp and excellent, just as sports sections should be. what a great job you did! i'm so glad you joined the aurora team this year. sarah gifford: the index was a bit much, i know, but it's done, and i'm thankful for the time, energy, organization and sacrifice you put into it! without you, my job would have been a lot more difficult. thank you from my heart. kate andersma: even though you graduated, those pictures got scanned hardcore first semester! thanks for being the queen of captions! you're unbelievable; i know no one like you. heather kinzinger: another year and you STILL amaze me. the job you have on your shoulders, and yet you still can be cool and relaxed when we hang out! thanks for all the dinner "venting sessions" and for being not only my adviser, but also my friend. i appreciate the work you do more than i could probably say. julie bogart and deanne johnson: thank you for putting up with constant questions and seemingly endless problems. woody webb (or should i say "webby wood?"): thank you for always being supportive of me and my cause. you are a Godsend to this school. todd maberry and the executive a.s.c. council: thanks for all the fun times! nashville rocks! i appreciate the friendships we've built this year. roommates (trisha gross and erin rumbley): thank you for putting up with my early mornings and early nights. i know it was a sacrifice for you two! thanks for all the laughs; when we did actually get to hang, we had nothing but fun. i love you both! rin: thanks for all the interesting tidbits about tsavo lions and other random speech topics. you make me smarter just to be in your presence. you and i will always love one thing: pinching trishy and making fun of her. boy, we've had some fun times! thanks for always driving to wendy's and for always being abundant in laughs and hugs. "b" brett dollens: thanks for being my surrogate brother (even when he's here with me). you're a good friend and you amuse me at times. i know i don't tell you often, but i do appreciate your friendship. jon gainey: your friendship this year has been my rock. you challenge me, you motivate me and you're always up for laughs (and never at my expense — psycho!). i don't mind going to marriott with you even though there are way too many people in there! thanks for being real at all times. i hope i know you for the rest of my life. candace hatchett (candy lou-hoo-hatchett, chatchett, snookums): i'm so glad God brought us together our freshman year! we made it through four years with each other! you're so supportive and wonderful. i couldn't ask for a better Godsend. you're an amazing teacher, and you will be for all your days. never forget our fun times (late skates, "studying" for educ 101 on thursday nights and our great summer together — go pc3!). i love you, candy! thank you. marmi and daddy: i love you two! i am who i am because of the wonderful influence you both have in my life. marmi, you're my dearest friend; poppy, you'll forever be my hero. thank you both for living Jesus to me all my life. sis and heath (heafie): thank you for all the laughs, and for always welcoming me in your humble abode. you guys are swell, and i'm glad to not only know you, but be family. we be tight. jer: bubby, no one could know how much you've meant to me this year. you've not only been the best kind of friend, but you've also been a shoulder to cry on and someone to always, and i mean always, make me laugh. you'll never know how much i love and appreciate you! nate: you're someone who i'll always look up to (even though you're younger than me). i may be shorter, but i'm smarter and much cooler than you are! (okay, who am i kidding?) you're a wonderful God-gifted boy who has a path to go down. follow God all your days, bubby. He will make your paths straight. grammy and "toots" (grandpa): thank you for being the coolest grandparents ever! grammy, thank you for showing me how a true prayer warrior lives. your prayers have made a difference in my life. "toots," thank you for always loving me with no regards or conditions. you've shown me how to love without condition. i love you both more than i could ever say! Jesus: thank You for being my Rock and my Everlasting Arms. You never cease to amaze me, and i'm thankful for Your constant presence in my life. without You, i would not be. without You, i'm nothing. may it be said of me that i walked with you. to olivet: thank you for helping to "define" me, and for letting me grow the last four years. this journey has been amazing, and i'm so glad God brought me here.
